Their children ran for help to the only other group camping at the lakes. The 4 other people sent a runner >10 miles down Trail 31 and Forest Road 207 to call 911, sent the children down with an escort to be picked up by relatives, and gave 1st aid to the couple until paramedics arrived with a litter around 1400, then helped to carry out the litter until relieved by NMSAR responders. Initial information was 1 subject, critical injury; information on subject 2 was obtained after 1400. NMSAR initial activation was limited to support role coordinating helo evac for RACoEM as backup to the initial ground response. Helo evac was attempted but precluded by high winds and developing snow, rain, and fog; these conditions also made litter evac higher risk and more difficult. Initial and subsequent local resources were not sufficient. At 1446 Unified Command was established and NMSAR ground response was started. Evac of 2 subjects was complete 10/8 0030 and all NMSAR resources were demobilized by 0105.	79	540

The 2 hiking companions, visiting subject from sea level, hiked out in full dark without lights to call 911. Initial report from dispatch to IC put subject on top of Baldy. This plus approaching early winter storm made urgency high. Initially not able to communicate with MI, IC opened mission. IC requested 2 suitable field teams and 1 SC with orders not to deploy without first getting update from IC. Further information placed subject at much lower, warmer elevation much closer to trailhead, so urgency not high. OCSO used snowcats to run some of the roads we could not reach with trucks and UTV/ATV. Snowshoe team cleared a road the subject had expressed interest in hunting. At 0400 we broke down base camp and moved incident base to the Cloudcroft Fire Station. At 0800 NMSP, Otero Co. SO, IC and OPS met to come up with a plan. OCSO had snowcats and Tiburon FD snowmobiles, and would use them to come in from the Sunspot highway and go down slope to reach the upper roads that could not be reached with trucks/utv. High Rolls FD truck would run Westside Road up to the Sunspot Hwy. Due to blizzard condition only one SAR team was sent into the field. Personnel on snowmobiles reached the subjects at 1200. He now had cell service and called his wife, but said he was on Little Walnut Rd instead of FR858. His cell then died. Ground and ATV teams searched all possible roads and trails throughout the night into the following day and found possible tire tracks and foot prints. The kayakers later capsized in rapids several miles below, and one was separated from his kayak and gear. This individual was a diabetic with an insulin pump but had no food, water, sugar, or medication with him. The other two kayakers left the subject on shore to retrieve his kayak and other belongings. When they returned, however, the subject was gone. They later heard him while traveling downstream and yelled back and forth to meet downstream, but the subject never arrived. They then reached a phone in Red Rock to call 911 and returned to Silver City. SAR responded, and ground and ATV teams searched throughout the night on local roads/jeep trails but found no sign. When the RP reported the incident to NPS staff at the Gila Cliff Dwellings National Monument Visitor's Center, the staff incorrectly followed procedures and called for Gila Regional EMS to respond rather than NMSP SAR. When two EMTs arrived on scene, they went up the trail to the subject's location without requesting any assistance. After noticing that the ambulance was still at T J Corral a few hours later, a NPS volunteer went up the trail with a radio and later contacted the Visitor's Center to report that the litter party was dehydrated and needed assistance with the evacuation. NMSP was then contacted, but the responding officers also failed to contact SAR. Eventually, an EMS coordinator contacted NMSP Dispatch to request SAR assistance, seven hours after the incident was initially reported. SAR immediately responded and arrived on scene to deploy four teams with a wheeled litter, which facilitated the subject's evacuation to T J Corral, at which point she was transported by ambulance to Gila Regional Medical Center.	12	32

SAR wanted a Black Hawk to extricate her but, upon realizing the steep slope (55%) and determining Black Hawk would cause an avalanche SAR put Black Hawk on standby. SAR deployed teams with avalanche expertise directly below the subject but about 1000 feet lower and about .36/mile distance. Team analysed snow with ambient temp about 40°F and waited until sun had gone down behind mountain to the west and the temps had dropped for snow to become solid.
